A Heart That's Open Wide

Written by Richard Ruane, copyright Okey Dokey Folkie Music (BMI)

She's got a heart that's open wide, to let a dream inside,
And I can't stop it, and I can't block it.
It doesn't matter that I tried.
It's a heart that's open wide.

Doesn't matter what my past is, doesn't matter what I've done.
Every road that I have taken, every way I've been mistaken,
It's a new start now begun.

And I know that I believe her, that I will not walk away.
One thing I can see is this is where I'm meant to be,
And this is where I'll stay.

With a heart that's open wide, to let a dream inside,
And I can't stop it, and I can't block it.
It doesn't matter that I tried.
It's a heart that's open wide.

And I don't know where our days may go.
And I don't know what our lives may show,
But I know I'm not going to hide,
From a heart that's open wide,
From a heart that's open wide.

And I know that I believe her, and I will not walk away.
One thing I can see is this is where I'm meant to be,
And this is where I'll stay.

With a heart that's open wide, to let a dream inside,
And I can't stop it, and I can't block it.
Doesn't matter that I tried.
It's a heart that's open wide.
It's a heart that's open wide.
A heart that's open, heart open wide.
